Chamber Charity Concert

The Capriccio Ensemble is to hold a charity concert in aid of the Medical Foundation for the Care of Victims of Torture on 29 January at All Saints Church.

The Capriccio Ensemble comprises of five well-respected musicians, drawn from some of London's finest chamber ensembles: Marianne Thorsen and Andrew Roberts - violins, Julia Knight and Juliet Jopling - violas and Sebastian Comberti - cello.

Through a shared passion about the music they are playing and a particular desire to start off the New Year by raising money for a wonderful charity, it seems especially fitting to celebrate the dawn of a new century by supporting the work of a charity which administers to unfortunate victims of regimes flourishing at the end of the last.

The works being played are the fruits of two masters of chamber music, inspired each by their own favoured instrument, the viola, to write two of the best-loved works in the repertoire: W. A. Mozart's String Quintet in G minor K.515 and J. Brahms String Quintet in G major Op. 111.

The concert takes place at 7.30pm on 29 January at All Saints' Church, Durham Road, N2. Tickets are £8 for adults, £5 for students and OAPs and free for children. Available on the door or in advance by calling 020 8444 6358.

Valentine Disco

East Finchley Festival is holding a Valentine disco on Saturday 12th February at the Herbert Wilmott Centre, Eagan's Close N2 from 8 - 11pm.

There will be a bar and bar snacks on sale. Tickets cost £5 each. To order a ticket please send a cheque made out to the Festival Committee with a stamped addressed envelope to Helen O'Toole, Festival Secretary, 8 Elmhurst Avenue, East Finchley, London N2 0LT.

Arts & Cinema

By Geoff Garfield

So it is all over: the fuss has died down and the New Year has begun. It starts with congratulations to the Phoenix on being nominated as a listed building; more on that, including explanation in the next issue.

Suffice to say January's programme is in the keeping with the new status, i.e. classy.

There is continuity regarding the Sunday matinees with two good films every Sunday. The year started with the French comedies Le Diner De Cons and Ridicule and as far as I'm concerned it could be a great trade, our beef for their movies.

This double was on 2nd January, and the 9th produced a David Mamet remake of Terence Rattigans The Winslow Boy coupled with The Tichbourne Claimant a David Yates comedy about an inheritance.

The 16th has Pedro Almodovar's intriguing All about my Mother with Ma vie en Rose and, if that is not enough on Sunday 23rd is Ratcatcher.

This is the harrowing story of life in a Glasgow tenement seen through the eyes of a 12-year-old boy. It is tenderly done and beautifully acted and has some very funny light moments. This is paired with another insight into the Glasgow psyche: My name is Joe. (Tell me someone, why is Glasgow always shown as grim and desperate; surely somebody must prosper there.)

Lawnmower Man

For the main bill we have a treat. My nomination for film of the year, and the year is only 2 to 3 weeks old depending on when you read this, is Straight Story. Directed by David Lynch it stars Richard Farnsworth (who is he?) As Alvin Straight who, due to failing eyesight, can only drive vehicles not in need of licence plates. This is a moving story of his journey across country on a lawnmower in order to see his brother.

It is a complete joy from start to finish and this film has the Garfield seal of recommendation.

Opening on the 14 January is Wonderland by Michael Winterbottom, director of the under valued Welcome to Sarajevo. Wonderland is a gritty social drama set on a south London estate.

Millennium wishes

By Daphne Chamberlain

We're talking pretty basic wishes here. Things like knickers and loos.

When I visited the Oak Lane Friendship Group a couple of years ago, many of the members had the same wish for East Finchley. "A shop where we could buy our knickers - or a reel of cotton. We'd like somewhere to do everyday shopping. East Finchley is just eating places, travel agents and betting shops."

The residents of Stokes Court also had some well-defined wishes, including one for a public toilet. Since the loo at the Underground station has been closed, the car park has taken over as the area's facility provider. As the walls are just under Stokes Court windows, you can imagine why the residents are objecting.

One gentleman told me that he'd phoned Barnet Council to complain, to be told (by an anonymous member of staff) that anyone needing a public convenience could catch a bus to North Finchley or Wood Green!

A bus? Now that's something else to wish for!

To return to the main point, though, a public loo is something any one of us could need at any time. It really is a basic provision.

Now for something completely different: I personally wish that some members of the (other) media would remember that the new person in London should be pronounced Mair (to rhyme with fair, or even Blair) - not May-er. That's a trivial wish - but we're all allowed one of those.
