Three pairs of London eyes

By Daphne Chamberlain

Off a little courtyard between houses in a North Finchley street is the Picture Gallery. As I arrived there, ballerina Deborah Bull was springing out of a car to open an exhibition, London and Beyond, seen through three very different pairs of eyes.

The London of East Finchley Open Artist Mari I'Anson is there for its people. Hurrying through Green Park, or outside the Ritz, Piccadilly, they draw you into their lives. Mari's work is well known locally, and for me her forté is depicting character.

Photographer John-Martin White shows scenes familiar to London's inhabitants: flats by the Regent's Canal, bridges, office buildings. But his camera shows them, in his words, as watery, wibbly or wobbly, turning solid structures into reflections. His occasional figures by the seashore are dreamlike too, almost from another age or another world.

Mexican Javier Garcia Barrera now lives in Finchley but looks at London as a bohemian-influenced visitor. Tower Bridge, London Bridge, Camden Lock and our own Church End are all there, accurately drawn but in vivid and intense colours. A huge multi-media St Paul's is in the centre of a riot of delicately coloured fireworks. "In Mexico," he told me, "We have fireworks all the time." Javier loves working in the streets of London, "enjoying the cold of winter".

This very interesting exhibition was only on for a couple of weeks, but Mari can be contacted on 020 8346 7011 or mari.artist@uwclub.net, Javier on 07757 087992 or mexicolour@hotmail.com and John-Martin on 07778 767470 or johnnie.martini@mac.com. Mari and Javier both give painting lessons, and Mari will do a portrait of your house.

The Picture Factory is at 44-48 Birkbeck Road, N12. The staff frame pictures, tapestries and embroideries (and even the occasional cricket ball), convert digital images on to block-mounted canvas, and clean and restore oil paintings and watercolours. Open Monday ñ Saturday. 9am ñ 6pm, they can be contacted on 020 8446 3164, 0800 074 8099 or info@picturefactory.co.uk.

Exciting exotica

By Diana Cormack

The Noble Sage art gallery promises to bring its own exotic flavour to East Finchley this month when it opens at 2a Fortis Green. As THE ARCHER reported last November, it is the brainchild of local resident Jana Manuelpillai and will specialise particularly in South Asian contemporary art.

Gallery director Jana says: "I want the gallery to be a portal by which visitors can visit distant lands and cultures, though I also want it to be a platform for talented artists who deserve a worthy UK stage."

The gallery will be launched with an exhibition of unseen works entitled Chennai Excite: New Work from South India. It will showcase, for the first time in the UK, paintings, drawings and sculptures by 17 gifted artists, two of whom are women artists, still a relatively rare occurrence in the south of India.

The exhibition is the culmination of a year's research into the exciting talent found in the art world of Chennai, south India. After the gallery's grand opening on 5 April, Chennai Excite will run from 6 April to 1 July 2006.

A British-born Tamil Sri Lankan, Jana leads a new breed of home-grown talent forging fresh and exciting links with the subcontinent from which his family originate. He will be holding director's specialist tours of the exhibition at 2pm on 15 and 29 April, 14 and 28 May and 18 June 2006. The Noble Sage will be open on weekdays from 9am-6.30pm and at weekends from 10am-5pm. Entry is free.

A jumbo gig

By Linda Soper

Blues and swing band Elephant Shelf are becoming very popular on the concert circuit and they brought their own brand of originality to Maddens on Saturday 12 February.

The group was formed 18 months ago by Vicky Martin, their guitarist / singer, and Glen Basset, who plays rhythm guitar. It took a year to get the right blend of musicians and as they did so, bookings and venues followed.

Lead singer Jessie Pie went through the band's repertoire singing a mixture of blues and swing and there were some lively originals. Jessie was dressed in red velvet and the songs showed the range of her voice and emotions. Every line was delivered with confidence and conviction. She is a good entertainer who puts her heart into her work.

Jessie ad libs with Vicky and they both come out with some witty one-liners. Vicky's guitar playing is worth seeing in itself. Her fingers gliding over the frets make it look all so easy but anyone who's ever tried to play will appreciate the hard work that goes into getting it looking that way. All in all, the Shelf are unique and excellent performers.

The band have a website www.elephantshelf.com so you can catch up on all their news and venues. It also includes videos of some of their songs so you can play them again.

They were due back in Maddens on 11 March and will no doubt be returning to East Finchley in the near future.

Sounds of South America

By Linda Soper

The sounds of South America filled East Finchley Methodist Church at one of its excellent monthly concerts.

Kike Pedersen, from Paraguay, gave a demonstration of his harp playing. He mixed traditional music with modern and you really felt you were being transported to the Andes, listening to the silvery sounds of the harp. Fellow-musician Roksana joined him with a couple of songs on the violin and the acoustics brought out the marvellous range of the music.

Kike said: "I studied the harp from the age of 11 with my father. I was taught by ear, then I learnt by reading music but I developed my own style and was largely self-taught."

At the age of 14 he made an album called Melodias Paraguayas and went on to produce six CDs, the last including some of his own compositions.

The concert evening was in a good cause because a collection was taken for a Paraguayan aid charity. A large fire in a supermarket in Paraguay last year killed 400 people. Although it happened some time ago, the money raised will help the children and families who were affected by the blaze.

So make a date in your diary for the monthly concerts in East Finchley Methodist Church; see What's On in THE ARCHER for details.

Just the Job for Oak Lodge

By Toni Morgan

Finchley Rotary Club hosted another successful jazz evening on 25 February at St Mary's Church Hall in Hendon Lane, to raise funds for a play park for Oak Lodge Special School in East Finchley.

Just The Job Jazz provided the music, members of Finchley Rotary Club supplied an excellent supper and, thanks to the generosity of all those who attended, they more than exceeded their fundraising target.

For lovers of live jazz, Just The Job play regularly at the Wilf Slack Cricket Pavilion, East End Road on alternate Mondays from 3 April.
